Student Disposition	Text Responses
	Changes recommended to improve the learning in this course
Satisfied	I liked how you would stop to take stock of the overall main themes in American political philosophy, I just think we could have done it once or twice more to round out the picture.
Neutral	make reading questions a graded homework assignment (even if it's like 5% of the grade)
Neutral	Sometimes it was hard to know what the reading assignment was. I couldn't find it when there weren't the reading questions so maybe even just making all the reading assignments actual canvas assignments (even if you don't assign them points or post the reading questions). This would just be a helpful way to be able to stay on top of the reading better.

Satisfied	I really loved this class! You did a great job! Thank you!
Neutral	great professor, ill miss this class
Neutral	I love your teaching style and how you resurrect the sources in every class. It's almost as if we are there when these ideas were first forming and we get to discuss and debate them in real time. Also the feedback given on the essays is the most helpful feedback that a professor or teacher has ever given me on any of my work. It challenges me just right and shows that you actually care about our growing in the content to take the time to give such good and in-depth feedback.
	Greatest course contribution
Satisfied	I loved doing the debates in this class! I feel like they really emphasized the different opinions expressed on the various topics. It was incredible to look at the history of American political philosophy and see how much it has changed but also how much is still the same. I liked doing the essays in parts. I feel like that helped me develop my ideas in a non-pressured way. Further your feedback was really helpful in knowing what other questions and perspectives I could consider. Thank you!
Neutral	readings, in class discussion
Neutral	I really like the debates, little essay, and big essay. They all helped me to dive into the content deeper by following my own curiosity.
