	Changes recommended to improve the learning in this course
Satisfied	I think that sometimes the discussion, while sound, could get off track and could use some more direction, at least at the onset. It's a difficult balance to strike for sure, but there were days we talked about intriguing things but were not really the point of the reading or even got to some sections which was frustrating at times.
Dissatisfied	I would recommend a slightly less Socratic teaching approach.

Satisfied	Though I liked the discussion-based classes, I think that if there were overall themes that you were wanting the class to remember, it would have been helpful to have more structure in the discussion around, for example, a couple of specific questions to for each reading that highlight those overall themes, and reinforcement via diagraming on the board.

Satisfied	I really enjoyed the class and look forward to future classes with you!
Satisfied	Overall, I enjoyed the class! I appreciated your flexibility in allowing students to skype in when they needed to and also that the focus of the class was on really taking a deep dive in what the philosophers were saying.
	Greatest course contribution
Dissatisfied	The readings contributed most to my learning.
Satisfied	The environment in class was very good for discussion, and that really fostered critical engagement with the texts and made the class fun and interesting. I also thought that when lectures using the whiteboard were done, they were very helpful and got the main points across
Satisfied	I felt like the discussions of the texts in class were really helpful in my understanding of what the author was trying to say. I struggle a lot with the way older texts are written but our discussions in class were helpful in clarifying the author's points. I also liked doing the discussion questions. I also really enjoyed reading books in their entirety! Usually, the books are taking in sections so a lot of those philosophers, though I had read parts of their works, I'd never read the whole thing. Also, I noticed that during discussions you started saying what page you were looking at, and it was really helpful in my following along in the discussion, so thank you! Finally, I loved that we did the final essay in parts. Though it made me kind of sick of it, it was helpful so that I wasn't trying to write a whole essay in a week, but just needed to do some revision.
